Jane Franklin Dance

Express yourself and find your passion in the performing arts. Classes encourage group participation, imagination, and give a “team” experience to the creative learner. Classes explore basic dance concepts to increase flexibility, coordination and strength. With guidance from instructors, students create roles for dances that are performed by the end of the week.

JANEFranklinDANCE

Modern Dance – This class introduces movement exercises that develop strength, flexibility coordination, balance, and body awareness. These concepts are applied to phrases of movement and to improvisational exercises. Dancers explore how movement is used to express an idea.

Dance Making - Creative problem solving to build expressive movement and physical story-telling Performance – Dancers learn choreography directed by the instructor, and help to create choreography to express the theme.

Visual Arts & Poetry Writing – Students express themselves through the visual arts or incorporate their literary talents as writers or poets.

Reading Time – As a group we will read the children's books The Mouse of Amherst and The Big Meow as well as others throughout the week.
A purchase of the books IS NOT necessary.
